Our Exodus in Detail – The Harvest

If one's timeline for the coming of Jesus is correct, there must be a clear fulfillment for the prophecy of the harvests in Revelation 14. With the jaw-dropping content in this video, you will see how amazingly well the heavenly imagery not only fits with the harvest prophecy, but tells the story of the groups who are gathered in each one--the harvest of the grain as well as of the grapes. The Lord gives ample evidence that the time for the harvest at the end of the world has come, and expects His people to understand it, internalize it, and share the blessing with others, lest they find themselves deceived in this dark time, and gathered with the Babylonian grapevine and burned rather than watered for ripening in the Lord's field. Will Jesus find the faith that He yearns for?

The Great Image in Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

Gold - Head
This section represented the empire of Babylon, of which Nebuchadnezzar was king.

Silver - Chest and Arms
The silver chest with two arms signified the empire of the Medes and Persians, which conquered and supplanted Babylon.

Brass - Belly and Thighs
This section represented the Greco-Macedonian Empire of Alexander the Great, which supplanted Persia.

Iron - Legs
The two legs of iron represented the Roman Empire. After Alexander's death, his Hellenistic empire continued in a divided form until it divided into three parts by Rome. The two legs apparently signified the east-west division that characterized the Late Roman Empire.

Iron and Clay - Feet and Toes
Referring to the legs and feet, the feet and toes of iron and clay's a brittle and unstable mixture because it cannot hold together. Some parts of it are strong and some weak. This section also contains a great divine mystery, which can only be deciphered after having received the latter rain.

(Revelation 13:17-18)

The first major state-organized persecution of Christians in the Roman Empire began under Emperor Nero in AD 64.

The trigger: In July 64, the Great Fire broke out in Rome and destroyed large parts of the city. Rumors blamed Nero himself. To divert suspicion, he blamed the Christians—a group that was still small and little respected at the time.

The Roman historian Tacitus (Annals 15.44) reports: Nero had Christians arrested and subjected to ingenious punishments. They were wrapped in animal skins and torn apart by dogs, crucified, or set on fire to burn as torches at night.

This persecution was essentially confined to the city of Rome and ended no later than Nero's death in AD 68. According to church tradition, the apostles Peter and Paul also died during this period.

Domitian (AD 81-96)

Under Domitian, measures were again taken against Christians (banishments and individual executions). The early church counted this period as the second persecution. This also includes the traditional account that John was banished to the island of Patmos and received Revelation there (about AD 95/96). Modern historians are more cautious, however, and see Domitian's actions as isolated rather than a large-scale systematic persecution.

Later major persecutions

Systematic empire-wide persecutions with a general requirement to sacrifice came only later, especially under:

- Decius (250-251)
- Valerian (257-260)
- Diocletian (Great Persecution, 303-311)

Babylon's Traps

Babylon is fallen! Have you come out of her? This warning of Jesus to flee may never be clearer than it is made in this video that serves as a last warning. The Bible tells us what Babylon is, and with some last pieces brought together here, you will discern her snares as she fights to bring down even more of God's people with her wily subtlety. Be warned at last and sever all ties with her now before she burns. Babylon is fallen.

In AD 64, a tremendous fire devastated large parts of the city of Rome. Many ancient sources, especially Tacitus, Suetonius, and Cassius Dio, report that Emperor Nero himself ordered the fire or at least knowingly allowed it. His apparent goal was to make room for a new, magnificent city that matched his artistic and architectural ideas. At the center of this new Rome, he wanted to build his vast palace, the Domus Aurea (“Golden House”)—a symbol of his power and divine claim.

But Nero was not concerned only with splendor and fame. Rome was then an overcrowded, chaotic, and widely run-down city, where narrow streets and wooden buildings posed a constant fire hazard. Many districts were considered breeding grounds of filth, disease, and “rabble.” Nero also saw the fire as an opportunity to free the city from these slums and rebuild it according to his vision as “new, clean, and orderly”—with broad streets, stone buildings, and symmetrical planning.

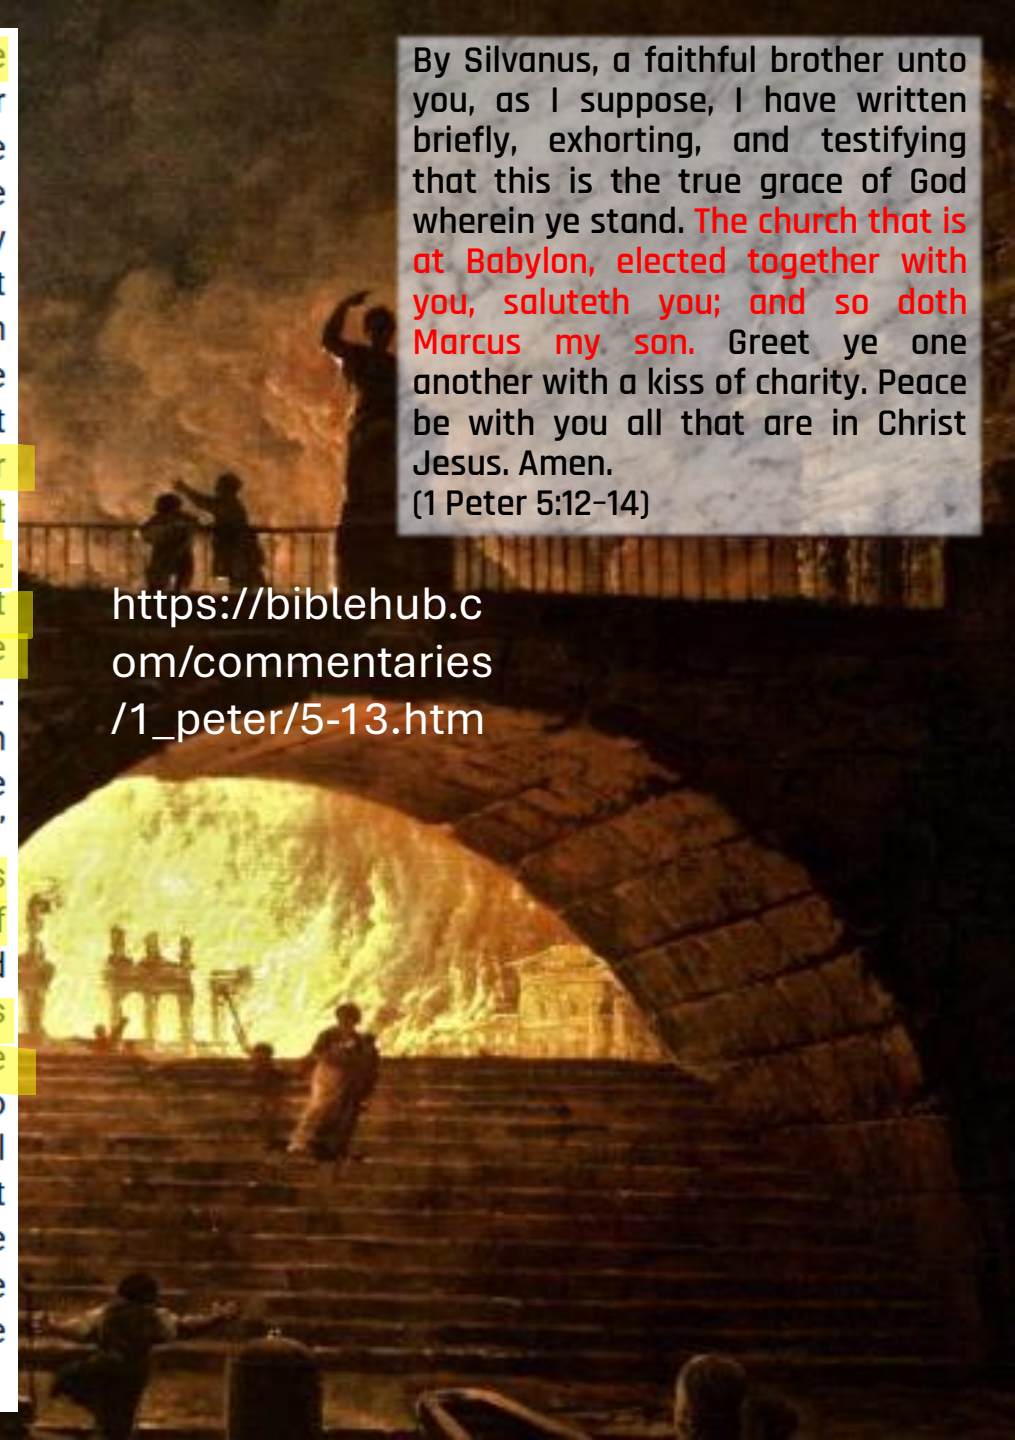

When the population blamed him, however, Nero redirected their anger by accusing the Christians of setting the fire. Thus began the first major persecution of Christians in the history of the Roman Empire. In reality, the fire became an instrument of political and social control that Nero used both for his building plans and to enforce his power—an attempt to replace old chaos with his “divine order.”

That is at Babylon.—Three places have claimed to be understood under this name: (1) A little place called Babylon in Egypt, which has nothing to plead for itself except the unlikelihood of St. Peter ever being at the Oriental Babylon, coupled with the difficulty of supposing that the name is used quite figuratively. Perhaps, also, we should mention the traditional connection of St. Mark with Egypt. No one now, however, maintains this view. (2) The literal Babylon in the East. This has for itself the simple way in which St. Peter uses the word without any circumlocution. But it has 'nothing else for it, to set against all the overwhelming arguments in favour of the third claimant; besides which we learn from Josephus of a great expulsion of Jews from the Oriental Babylon a few years before this date: these Jews might of course, however, have gathered there again, as they did at Rome, in spite of frequent expulsions. (3) It may be called the established interpretation that the place meant is Rome. We never hear of St. Peter being in the East, and the thing in itself is improbable, whereas nothing but Protestant prejudice can stand against the historical evidence that St. Peter sojourned and died at Rome. Whatever theological consequences may flow from it, it is as certain that St. Peter was at Rome as that St. John was at Ephesus. Everything in the Letter also points to such a state of things as was to be found at Rome about the date when we believe the Letter to have been written. It is objected that St. Peter would not gravely speak of Rome under a fanciful name when dating a letter; but the symbolism in the name is quite in keeping with the context. St. Peter has just personified the church of the place from which he writes, which seems quite as unprosaic a use of language as to call Rome "Babylon." And it seems pretty clear that the name was quite intelligible to Jewish readers, for whom it was intended. The Apocalypse (Revelation 17:18) is not the only place where Rome is found spoken of under this title. One of the first of living Hebraists (who will not allow his name to be mentioned) told the present writer that no Hebrew of St. Peter's day would have had need to think twice what city was meant when "Babylon" was mentioned. And on the mention of the name, all the prophecies of the vengeance to be taken on the city which had desolated the Holy Land would rush with consolation into the mind of the readers, and they would feel that St. Peter, though supporting St. Paul, was still in full sympathy with themselves. Finally, as M. Renan suggests, there were reasons of prudence for not speaking too plainly about the presence of a large Christian society in Rome. The police were still more vigilant now than when St. Paul wrote in guarded language about the Roman empire to the Thessalonians. (See Excursus on the Man of Sin, after 2 Thess.) It might provoke hostilities if the Epistle fell into the hands of a delator, with names and places too clearly given.

By Silvanus, a faithful brother unto you, as I suppose, I have written briefly, exhorting, and testifying that this is the true grace of God wherein ye stand. The church that is at Babylon, elected together with you, saluteth you; and so doth Marcus my son. Greet ye one another with a kiss of charity. Peace be with you all that are in Christ Jesus. Amen.

The number of the beast (Koine Greek: ἀριθμὸς τοῦ θηρίου, Arithmós toû thēriou) is associated with the Beast of Revelation in chapter 13, verse 18 of the Book of Revelation. In most manuscripts of the New Testament and in English translations of the Bible, the number of the beast is six hundred sixty-six (666) or $\overline{\chi\zeta\varsigma}$ (in Greek numerals, $\overline{\chi}$ represents 600, $\overline{\xi}$ represents 60 and $\overline{\varsigma}$ represents 6).^[1] Papyrus 115 (which is the oldest preserved manuscript of the Revelation as of 2017), as well as other ancient sources like Codex Ephraemi Rescriptus, give the number of the beast as $\overline{\chi\iota\varsigma}$ (616), not 666;^{[2][3]} critical editions of the Greek text, such as the Novum Testamentum Graece, note $\chi\iota\varsigma$ /616 as a variant.^[4] There is a broad consensus in contemporary scholarship that the number of the beast is linked by gematria to the typology of Roman Emperor Nero, an infamous persecutor of Christians.^{[5][6][7][8]}

The name stands for character

The clearest biblical evidence is in 1 Samuel 25:25:

"Let not my lord, I pray thee, regard this man of Belial, even Nabal: for as his name is, so is he: Nabal is his name, and folly is with him."

It explicitly states: The name corresponds to the character.

Further strong evidence

1. God changes names to express character / destiny:

- Abram → Abraham ("father of a multitude") - Genesis 17:5
- Jacob → Israel ("prince with God") - Genesis 32:28
- Simon → Peter (rock) - John 1:42

2. Names that describe character or circumstances:

- Nabal = fool (1 Samuel 25:25)
- Ichabod = "The glory is departed" (1 Samuel 4:21)
- Isaac = "he laughs" (Genesis 21:3, 6)
- Esau and Jacob (hairy / heel-holder) - Genesis 25:25-26
- Immanuel = "God with us" (Matthew 1:23)

3. General statements about the value of a name:

- Proverbs 22:1: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."
- Ecclesiastes 7:1: "A good name is better than precious ointment."

In the Bible, a name is often more than a label—it reveals or confirms a person's character, nature, or destiny.

And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

Nero as Apollo

Apollo—Greek god of light, prophecy, healing, and plague.
Ancient statue. Public domain.

The Powers of Apollo

Apollo^[a] is one of the Olympian deities in ancient Greek religion and mythology. His numerous functions include light, healing, prophecy, music, poetry, and archery. He is the son of Leto and Zeus, and the twin brother of Artemis, goddess of the hunt. He is considered to be the most beautiful god and is represented as the ideal of the kouros (ephebe, or a beardless, athletic youth).

As the patron deity of Delphi (Apollo Pythios), Apollo is an oracular god—the prophetic deity of the Delphic Oracle and the deity of ritual purification. His oracles were often consulted for guidance in various matters. He was in general seen as the god who affords help and wards off evil, and is referred to as Alexicacus, the "averted of evil". Medicine and healing are associated with Apollo, whether through the god himself or mediated through his son Asclepius. Apollo delivered people from epidemics, yet he is also a god who could bring ill health and deadly plague with his arrows. The invention of archery itself is credited to Apollo and his sister Artemis. Apollo is usually described as carrying a silver or golden bow and a quiver of arrows.

As the god of mousike,^[b] Apollo presides over all music, songs, dance, and poetry. He is the inventor of string-music and the frequent companion of the Muses, functioning as their chorus leader in celebrations. The lyre is a common attribute of Apollo. Protection of the young is one of the best attested facets of his panhellenic cult persona. As a kourotrophos, Apollo is concerned with the health and education of children, and he presided over their passage into adulthood. Long hair, which was the prerogative of boys, was cut at the coming of age (ephebeia) and dedicated to Apollo. The god himself is depicted with long, uncut hair to symbolise his eternal youth.

Apollo is an important pastoral deity, and he was the patron of herdsmen and shepherds. Protection of herds, flocks and crops from diseases, pests and predators were his primary rustic duties. On the other hand, Apollo also encouraged the founding of new towns and the establishment of civil constitutions, is associated with dominion over colonists, and was the giver of laws. His oracles were often consulted before setting laws in a city. Apollo Agyieus was the protector of the streets, public places and home entrances.^[2] In the 5th century BC, his worship was imported to Rome.

From the 5th century BCE, Apollo was often identified with Helios, the personification of the Sun.^[3] Although Latin theological works from at least 1st century BCE identified Apollo with Sol,^{[4][5]} there was no conflation between the two among the classical Latin poets until 1st century CE.^[6] Apollo is known in Greek-influenced Etruscan mythology as Apulu.^[7]

And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet. (Revelation 16:13)

And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone. (Revelation 19:20)

Nero and the Golden Age

When Nero became emperor, court poets said: Now the Golden Age is returning.

They meant that after bad years, peace, justice, and prosperity would return. A young ruler saves the world—as in ancient myths, when people still lived without hardship and war.

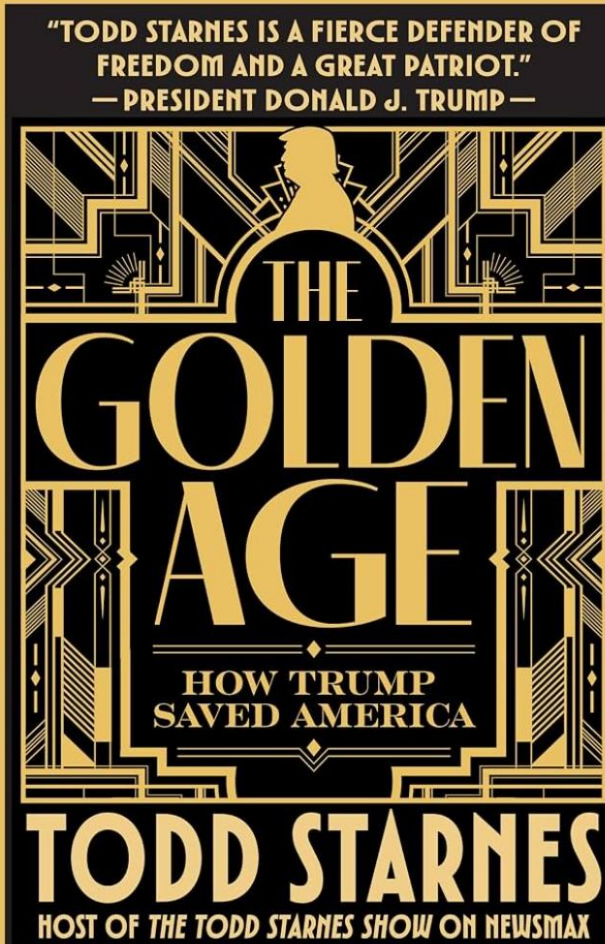

Nero was portrayed like a sun or light god. His palace was later even called the Golden House.

At first this sounded like hope. Later the same gold looked like boasting: the emperor as savior, carrying the world on his shoulders.

Modern "Bread and Circuses"

After the final, Infantino posted a long statement on Instagram (later on FIFA's website), saying:

FIFA was "on the front lines" and delivered "the best show in the world" / "an extraordinary show." He advised critics to meditate, pray, or watch football; only "our beautiful game" could produce such an extraordinary show that made everyone one. He was proud to contribute to it.

At the December 2025 World Cup draw, he said the main thing was to have fun; the draw had to be "a show."

In short: Infantino regularly frames FIFA and the World Cup as a global entertainment-and-happiness show.

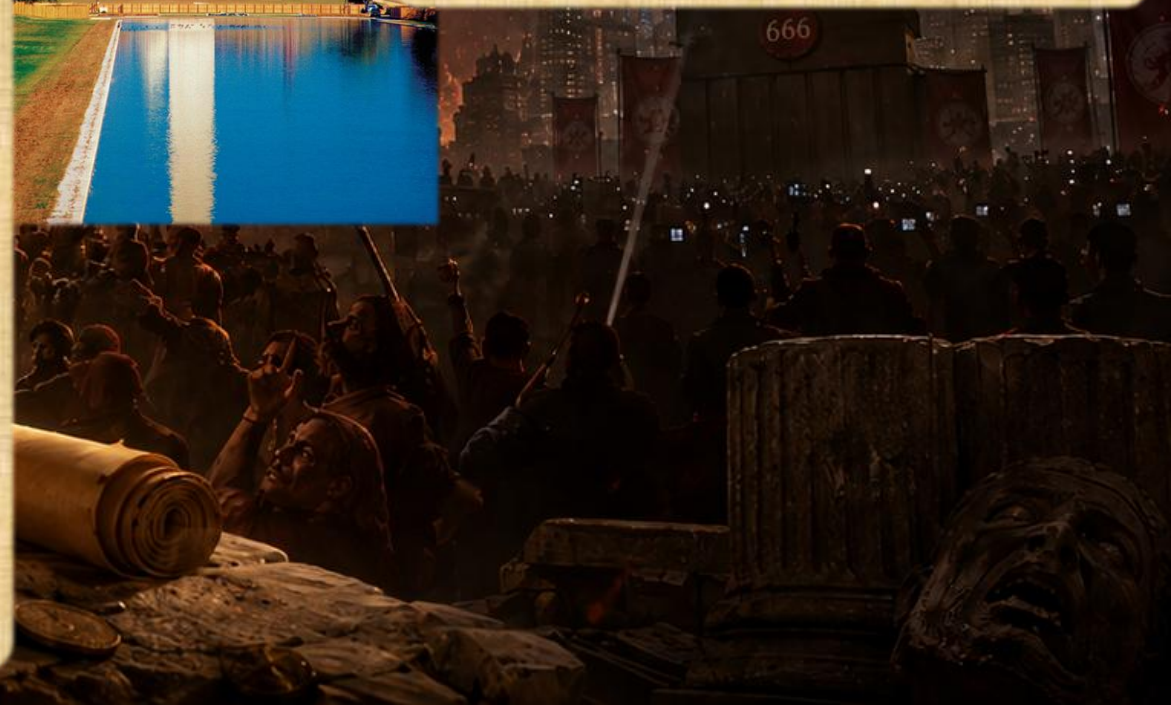

At a FIFA reception in Trump Tower (mid-July 2026), he said:

"Already in 2018, it was my honor to help secure the World Cup for North America ... They rigged the election, and what did I get? I got the World Cup. I got the Olympic Games. And I brought them here."

Elsewhere he put it this way: "I got the Olympics to come to the United States and I got the World Cup to come to the United States." He linked this to the claim that after a second term from 2021 to 2025 he should no longer have been president—but because of the "stolen" 2020 election he was back in 2026 and could now experience the events himself.

Pentagon Drafting a New U.S. Nuclear Strategy

August 5, 2026 at 8:22 am EDT By Taegan Goddard — 107 Comments

"The Defense Department's policy chief is drafting a new U.S. nuclear strategy that emphasizes the possible use of shorter-range tactical weapons in case of a regional war with China or Russia, according to five people familiar with the plans," NBC News reports.

"The new strategy, which is classified, challenges the approach to nuclear weapons that has been settled policy for decades."

The EU digital identity wallet: 2026 and 2027 deadlines for IT

The EU digital identity wallet: 2026 and 2027 deadlines for IT

<https://itcko.sk/en/eu-digital-identity-wallet-what-it-teams-face/>

Regulation (EU) 2024/1183, better known as eIDAS 2, entered into force on 20 May 2024, and the next milestone lands at the end of this year. Every Member State has to provide at least one European Digital Identity Wallet within 24 months of the entry into force of the implementing acts the Commission adopted in late November 2024. That deadline falls in December 2026.

Slovakia has a starting point at the Ministry of the Interior, split across two apps: eOdklady carries an ID card and driving licence on the phone, while e-identita handles sign-in to slovensko.sk and electronic signing — and is the one activated first. The eIDAS 2 wallet is a wider concept, alongside identity it carries verified attributes issued by third parties, and the user discloses only the data a given service actually needs.

REAL ID Required for U.S. Travelers beginning May 7, 2025

As of May 7, 2025, U.S. travelers will need to present a REAL ID compliant license/ID or another acceptable form of identification to board commercial flights. Travelers who fail to produce a REAL ID or an accepted alternative may not be allowed through TSA security checkpoints.

Children under 18 are not required to provide identification when traveling within the United States.

REAL ID-compliant cards have a star marking on the upper top portion of the card. If the card does not have one of these markings, it is not REAL ID-compliant and won't be accepted as proof of identity. A U.S. Department of Defense ID, including IDs issued to dependents, are acceptable alternatives to a REAL ID. Other acceptable forms of ID accepted at TSA Checkpoints include a U.S. passport or U.S. passport card, DHS trusted traveler cards (Global Entry, NEXUS, SENTRI, FAST), and state-issued Enhanced Driver's License. For a complete list of acceptable alternative forms of identification, visit TSA.gov, or for more information, visit DHS.gov.

Blood Moon, Elijah and Idolatry

Janai Purnima is the sacred-thread festival held at the full moon in the Nepalese month of Shrawan. In 2026 it fell on August 28. The name says the essential thing: Janai = sacred thread, Purnima = full moon.

Three customs run side by side:

Changing the Janai

Hindu men of the Brahmin and Chhetri castes who wear the sacred thread exchange it for a new one.

Doro / Raksha-Sutra on the wrist

Priests tie a yellow protective thread around everyone's wrist—men, women, and children (men on the right, women on the left). It is regarded as protection from illness, misfortune, and evil influences.

Rakhi

Sisters tie a band around their brothers' wrists and wish them protection. The brothers promise support and often give a gift.

What the Janai means

The thread is a religious vow; its strands stand for Brahma, Vishnu, and Shiva.

It is renewed yearly. Beforehand, many purify themselves by cutting hair, shaving, and eating vegetarian food. On the festival day, believers bathe early in sacred waters; then the priest gives mantras and a new thread.

Special places

Pashupatinath Temple, Kathmandu
Kumbheshwar Temple, Patan—the pond is believed connected with Gosaikunda
Gosaikunda (about 4,380 m, Langtang)—major pilgrimage; tens of thousands bathe in the cold mountain lake.

Blood Moon, Elijah and Idolatry

And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, How long halt ye between two opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. And the people answered him not a word. (1 Kings 18:21)

...and many other pagan gods

A solemn last warning is being proclaimed: the day of God's wrath is approaching, and this PDF article explores the significance of a blood moon tetrad as the prophetic countdown pointing toward that day. In connection with the prophecy of Joel 2, we examine the biblical signs surrounding the coming "day of the LORD" and the promised work of Elijah before that great and terrible day. Who shall be able to stand?

Yom Kippur

And it came to pass at the time of the offering of the evening sacrifice, that Elijah the prophet came near, and said, LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, let it be known this day that thou art God in Israel, and that I am thy servant, and that I have done all these things at thy word. Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou hast turned their heart back again. Then the fire of the LORD fell, and consumed the burnt sacrifice, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench. And when all the people saw it, they fell on their faces: and they said, The LORD, he is the God; the LORD, he is the God. And Elijah said unto them, Take the prophets of Baal; let not one of them escape. And they took them: and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kishon, and slew them there. (1 Kings 18:36-40)
